A NOTE FROM YOUR NURSE

You're already doing a lot.

Hi. I'm Sabrina Mortensen, RN. Mom of 4. Co-founder of Rese Wellness.

This guide is part of your Support Kit. Keep a few easy options within reach so dinner still happens when appetite shifts.

Use what helps. Skip what doesn't. Message us in the portal if you need a human. A real nurse answers. Often that's me.

HOW SUPPORT WORKS

Sleigh the Season is a nurse-supported weight care program. A licensed provider decides whether medication is right for you and writes the prescription. When prescribed, it is a weekly at-home tirzepatide injection. Rese provides education on how to do it.

Clinical questions go in the portal. Your prescribing provider answers there. Support can help with shipping, billing, and account access.

Your first week

Short list. Check things off as you go.

- [ ] Read the clinical patient guide that came with your shipment (storage, injection steps, when to get help).
- [ ] Pick your weekly injection day and put it on the calendar.
- [ ] Place one grocery pickup from the shortcut list in this guide.
- [ ] Keep water nearby. Sip through the day.
- [ ] Watch for appetite changes. Smaller portions and eating slowly often help.
- [ ] Reply to your weekly text from Sabrina when it suits you.
- [ ] Message the portal if something does not feel right.

First weeks, gently

Appetite may change. Mild digestive ups and downs are common early on. Smaller portions, eating slowly, and sipping water are what many patients find supportive. This is general, not dosing, and not a forecast for how you will feel.

MAKE IT EASY

Build-your-plate idea

Put a protein on the table, a vegetable or fruit, and whatever starch the kids already like. Same meal. No second dinner for you.

THE HOLIDAY TABLE

- Eat slowly. Put the fork down between bites when you can.
- Notice fullness. Appetite may signal "enough" sooner.
- Build a plate once. Include a protein and something you enjoy.
- Sip something between bites.
- If the room is loud, step outside for two minutes. Then come back.

No dieting rules. Show up. Take care of yourself in small ways.

Sheet-pan chicken and veggies

Serves 4

INGREDIENTS

- 1.5-2 lb boneless chicken, cut up
- 1 bag frozen broccoli
- 1-2 cups baby potatoes, halved
- 2 tbsp olive oil
- Salt, pepper, garlic powder

STEPS

1. Heat oven to 425°F. Line a sheet pan.
2. Toss chicken and veggies with oil and seasoning. Spread in one layer.
3. Roast 20-25 minutes, until chicken is cooked through.
4. Serve as-is, or tuck into tortillas with salsa.

Slow-cooker pulled chicken taco bowls

Serves 4-6

INGREDIENTS

- 2 lb boneless chicken
- 1 jar salsa
- 1 can black beans, drained
- Tortillas, rice, or bagged salad
- Optional: grated cheese, Greek yogurt, lime

STEPS

1. Put chicken and salsa in the slow cooker. Cook on low 4-6 hours (or high 2-3).
2. Pull apart with two forks. Stir in black beans to warm.
3. Build bowls: chicken, beans, whatever base the family wants. Top as you like.

LOOKING AHEAD

After month 3

What happens next

Around weeks 10 to 12, you and your provider review how things are going and decide together what comes next. There is no surprise cliff.

You may move to continued treatment, or to a way to maintain the habits you have built. Your provider decides with you.

Keep what helps: protein-forward meals, hydration, movement you enjoy, sleep when the season allows, and the family shortcuts in this guide.
